MAD; GUARD DYING AFTER HIS ESCAPE

Murderer Shoots Two and Flees From Sing Sing Death House.

Shillitani, who shot wards and fled from the death house and Daniel McCarthy, the first guard shom he shot, is dying in the Os-June 30 for shooting and killing John Risso and Policeman William Heaney and Charles Tears in 1913.

The murderer tore off his clothes as he ran and reached the Ossining Hospital almost nude within twenty minutes after his escape. He asked for a place to sleep. A party of keepers took him back to the prison McCarthy was carried unconscious to the hospital, where he was operated on this morning by Dre. Irvine and Sweet. The bullet passed downward through the appendix and tore the Int. tines." Ernest Bullard, the other guard, shot in the arm and chest, is not seriously hurt.

The murderer's brother, John, and sister, Theresa, visited him yesterday from 3 to 5 P. M. A reporter for The Evening World found them to-day at their home, No. 211 Mulberry Street. They said that they were searched in the prison office before entering the death house and that neither had a revolver. During their talk with him they were separated from the cell door by a close wire screen, they said. They could not get nearer to him than four feet, and a keeper sat be-

Shillitani was fighting with the TWO CONVICTED AS PIRATES guards. Dr. Arthur Warren Walte gave a detailed account of what happened. Shillitani, he said, feigned illness and induced McCarthy to open his cell door. As soon as the door was open Shillitani produced a revolver, pressed it against McCarthy's abdomen and fired. McCarthy dropped and Bullard ran to his as sistance, at which Shillitani shot Bullard in the arm, took the guards' keys. dragged the men to his cell and locked them in and then fled.

The yells of the condemned men and the sound of Shillitani's shots aroused the prison. The fugitive dodged into the yard, scaled a wall and disappeared in the darkness.

Three weeks ago, however, a prisoner in the death house committed suicide, and the keepers could have prevented it had they had the cell keys. GREAT OFFENSIVE MOVE BY ALLIES IS PREDICTED

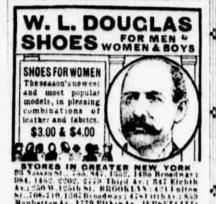

Doctors Back From Service at the Front Say French and British Will Soon Attack in West.

An offensive movement on a greater agnitude than anything heretofore attempted is under preparation by the British and French allies along the entire western front, according to Drs. John S. O'Mally and F. C. Jacobs of Chicago, recently connected with an American hospital corps in France, who arrived here to-day on the steamship Noordam from Fal-

According to Dr. O'Mally, this ofbut was forestalled by the unexpected efforts of the Germans before Verdun. Evidence that the offensive movement is yet to take place, Dr. Jacobs said, is the vast quantity of munitions that is being gathered and stored in convenient localities and the establishment of numerous hospital bases, fully equipped, back of the lines. These additional hospitals, Dr. O'Maily added, far exceed the requirements of the allied forces based on the casualties resulting from the fighting that has so far taken place. Estimates of losses in the engagements before Verdun up to the present time, he said, have been about 45 per cent, of the men engaged and the taking of Forts Vaux and Douarmont cost the Germans 150,000 men each. Dr. Charles Fitzgerald of New Haven, who has been working in one of the medical units with the Austrian army, was also on the Noordam, He said reported shortage of food in Austria has been exaggerated. quirements of the allied forces based
